LEGO® CREATOR CARNIVAL CHALLENGE!

Summer's here, and that means it's Carnival time! Here at the LEGO Creator lab, we're celebrating Fun, sun and summer vacation with the all-new Ferris Wheel. Thanks to its motorized Power Functions, it spins around and around just like the real thing...and the best thing is, it can run all year round!

BUILDING CHALLENGE

You've seen our carnival ride – now show us yours! Use your collection of LEGO bricks to create a ride or attraction for a carnival or amusement park. It can be anything from a roller coaster to a test-your-strength machine, a spooky house of horrors to a romantic tunnel of love!

We'll pick five of our favorites to feature in the November issues of LEGO Magazine and LEGO BrickMaster. Each winner will get a LEGO set of their choice worth up to $100.00! ■

TO ENTER:

- 1 Build a carnival or amusement park attraction using pieces from your LEGO® brick collection.
- 2 Send us a color photo of your model. Only photographs and glossy photo-quality print-outs will be accepted. No Polaroids, please!
- 3 Write an essay of 50 words or less telling us about your creation.
- 4 Include your name, age, complete mailing address and day-time phone number on your essay.
- 5 Mail your photo and essay to:

TECH!

We came to Mars in peace, hoping to learn about the strange energy crystals discovered there. But when the aliens attacked, everything changed. Now we've rebuilt our exploration and mining vehicles into a powerful defense force. See how our technology has improved... and find out what we've learned about the mysterious enemies who want to drive us off the Red Planet.

ETX ALIEN MOTHERSHIP

Separates into 4 vehicles: strike ship, saucer core and twin scout flyers

Plasmoid Beam Cannon

MX-71 RECON DROPSHIP

Designed to drop off and retrieve mining vehicles under extreme conditions

"The MX-71 has hauled us out of trouble more times than I can count. Nothing's better at getting into and out of a hazard zone in an emergency."

Omni-Directional Thrust Vector Turbine

Hi-Valc II Antigrav Engine

Hyper-Stasis Alien Containment Tube

Carbonic Alloy Stabilizer Wing

AMEC Industries Homing Missile

InFraSweep 3.0 Sensor Array

Rotating Ozone Pulse Blaster

Omni-Torque Suspension System

Cable-Reinforced All-Terrain Tires

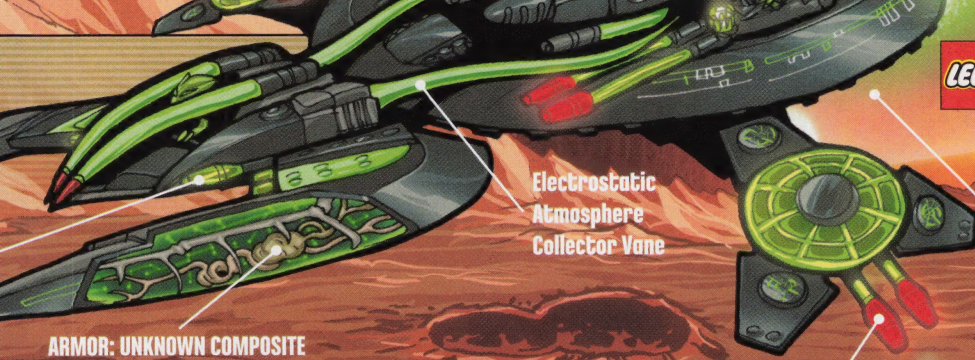

"The Trike's got an amazing power system. One crystal will keep it going for days, and thanks to those big wheels and that suspension system, it zooms at max-speed right over any surface you can name."

ARMOR: UNKNOWN COMPOSITE

Arekkan Ray Cutter

"This is the Big Bad of the alien Fleet. We still don't know where it came from or what it wants, except to take our crystals and drive us off the planet. Extremely powerful and extremely dangerous!"

MT-51 CLAW TANK

Heavy-duty mining vehicle reconfigured into mobile battle tank

MegaGripp IV Power Clamp

"The Claw Tank is the toughest thing we've got in the fight against the aliens. Once it grabs on to something with that big clamp arm, it never lets go."

Galvanized Permasteel Armor

High-Tensile Armored Movement System (Hi-TAMS)

GroundCruncher Compound Treads

Plasmic Conductor Fin

"Zakk" Cannon

ETX ALIEN STRIKE

Multi-conversion wings give these attack ships an edge in air combat

"Don't let its size fool you. The Astro Fighter moves like a streak of ionized atmo-lightning, and its laser packs a major punch."

Zark Industries Laser Cannon

"These things are bad business. Radar barely picks them up, and that main weapon will knock out your vehicle's power systems if it hits you."

SECRETS OF THE TOA MAHRI!

B IONICLE® heroes go underwater in 2007, with the new Toa Mahri! But how were these exciting sets designed? Where do the designers get their ideas and how do they bring them to life? We asked Design Manager and long-time BIONICLE team member Christoffer Raundahl to share some secrets of set design!

Q: The Toa Mahri look very different from other Toa you have designed, and they're obviously ready for underwater action. What were some of the challenges you faced designing these sets?

CR: The biggest challenge was to make the Toa live underwater and to make a design that wouldn't be too close to real diver's equipment, but still be believable and BIONICLE.

Q: Can you tell us something about how sets are designed? What different steps do you go through?

CR: We start by making a physical mock-up of the characters. Then we test the figures. We get groups of kids we show the models to, and then we use their feedback to make the models better or terminate them if they aren't good enough. After that, we start designing the different elements and models for production.

Q: How much does the BIONICLE story affect your designs for sets?

CR: We have a story team we work together with at the same time we are designing the products. This way, we can take inspiration from the sets and use that in the story, and take inspiration from the story and use it in the sets.

Q: How did you make the Toa Mahri look different from each other?

CR: We tried to add different details to each of them, like Jaller has a "pet," Kongu has two Cordak blasters, others have lots of blades, etc.

"When I see the kids react to the BIONICLE sets - it's very rewarding to see all the hard work we put into the sets is appreciated."

Q: Is it hard coming up with ideas for new BIONICLE sets every year?

CR: We always think so, but as soon as we get started there are always lots of ideas. And everyone on the team loves that part of the process.

Q: What is your favorite part of your job?

CR: When I see the kids react to the BIONICLE sets - it's very rewarding to see all the hard work we put into the sets is appreciated.

Q: Last question - who are your favorite Toa Mahri?

CR: Toa Mahri Kongu or Toa Mahri Hewkii! ■

MARKET STREET TOUR!

If you're reading this, you're a LEGO® BrickMaster. And if you're a LEGO BrickMaster, we know you're really into building. That's why we created LEGO Factory, a website and model line designed for and by creative builders like you.

The newest model to come out of LEGO Factory is the Market Street, a detailed building and street scene with lots of real-world details, over 1,200 pieces, and a modular design to let you build and rebuild it in countless different ways. And the best thing about it is that it was created by one talented LEGO fan!

Eric Brok has been a LEGO enthusiast for 10 years. He designed the Market Street to complement another modular LEGO set, 10182 Café Corner. Here's what he has to say:

"When I developed the LEGO Market Street model, I worked next to the LEGO Creator design team in Billund, a great bunch of people. They were hospitable, helpful and fun.

Market Street was to showcase a fan design, promoting the Design-it-Yourself vision of LEGO Factory. The modularity of the model may also inspire people to design their own floor modules or furniture sets in Factory without having to build an entire house.

For the Market Street, I concentrated on modularity within a single set. So I chose a simple 16x16 square footprint for each floor. This way, the floors can be turned around as well as stacked in different ways. After I sketched out the main building, I absolutely wanted to add a side structure to it to supply a second base and roof. This way, floor modules from the main building could be rearranged over two bases. I chose simple arcades with a flat roof. And that's what made the set a Market Street."

Eric designed the Market Street building with multiple roof options. The regular roof has a stepped front inspired by the architecture of historic Dutch cities, but it can be flipped around for an international-style roof to match the Café Corner. It can even be switched with the side building's flat top for a classic American look.

Since you can change the floors of the building, it was also designed with an inventive system of connection bricks. They let you easily add and remove balconies, lights, flagpoles and more as you create your own Market Street.

The Market Street is the start of a whole new concept in LEGO construction. Available now on www.LEGOfactory.com is a system to let you design, build and purchase your own unique Market Street modules using the LEGO Digital Designer program. You'll even be able to upload and share your creations with other LEGO Factory builders to assemble an entire town! ■

MYSTERIES OF MARS!

MINIFIGS IN SPACE

When the NASA rovers Spirit and Opportunity landed on Mars, they weren't alone. Two LEGO Astrobots accompanied them on their space voyage as part of a pair of special mini-DVDs that contained the names of 4 million Earthlings who volunteered to be part of the amazing adventure.

LANDMARKS OF MARS

Mars is home to both the highest mountain in our solar system, Olympus Mons, and the largest canyon, Valles Marineris!

PATHFINDER

The Mars Pathfinder spacecraft landed in a rocky region of Mars in 1997, carrying a small remote-controlled robotic rover called Sojourner. Together, Pathfinder and Sojourner collected over 17,000 photographs and lots of new information about Martian rocks, soil, wind and weather.

THE UNSTOPPABLE ROBOTS

In 2003, NASA's Mars Exploration Rover (MER) Mission sent a pair of rovers named Spirit and Opportunity to Mars. They were only supposed to run for three months, but so far they've spent more than three years traversing the Martian surface and sending back information about the planet!

THE MARS IS NEIGHBORLY
Mars is neighborly through in near

LEGO MARS MISSION

<http://marsmission.lego.com>

MARS FACTS

Mars is half as wide across as the Earth, but only has 1/10th of the mass. Because Mars is further from the Sun, a Martian year (the time it takes to make one full rotation around the Sun) takes about 2 Earth years. Of all the planets in our solar system, its seasons are the most like our own. The temperature on Mars varies from about -220° F (-140° C) in the winter to 70° F (20° C) in the summer. It has the largest dust storms in the solar system, some of which can cover the entire planet.

MOONS OF MARS

Mars' two moons, the small and oddly-shaped Phobos and Deimos, may have once been asteroids that were captured by the planet's gravity. The names "Phobos" and "Deimos" also mean "fear" and "dread".

THE OTHER MARS

Mars was named after the Roman god of war, who was also known as Ares in ancient Greek mythology. Its two tiny moons were named for his children, who followed their father into battle.

HUMANS ON MARS

A manned trip to Mars would be long and very dangerous. A spaceship with a crew would require enough supplies and fuel to last through the entire 2-3 year round trip. It would also need special shielding to protect the people inside from solar radiation along the way.

THE MARS CURSE

About 2/3rds of all spacecraft sent to Mars have failed before completing their missions. Some have crashed, some have run out of power, and some have simply disappeared without a trace.

WATER ON MARS

Although liquid water cannot exist on the planet's surface due to its low atmosphere, Mars has frozen ice caps at its poles. If all the ice at the southern polar cap melted, the entire planet would be covered in 36 feet (11 meters) of water!

THE INVASION THAT NEVER WAS

On October 30, 1938, just in time for Halloween, a radio version of H.G. Wells' famous novel The War of the Worlds was broadcast across America. The performance was so realistic that many listeners panicked, thinking that Mars was really invading!

PIONEERS OF MARS

The first successful mission to Mars was NASA's Mariner 4, which was launched in 1964 and flew over the planet, sending back photographs of its strange, crater-covered surface.

The first objects to safely land on the planet were the Soviet probes Mars 2 and Mars 3, launched in 1971, but both disappeared from contact seconds after landing. It was not until the NASA Viking 1 and Viking 2 probes landed in 1976 that a successful planetary mission took place on Mars.

RED PLANET

As the fourth planet from the Sun, making it the planetary neighbor of our own world, the Earth. In 2003, Mars' orbit through outer space brought it closer to Earth than it had been in 60,000 years: just 35 million miles (56 million km) away!

THE FUTURE OF MARS

The next mission to Mars is scheduled to be NASA's Phoenix Mars lander, set to launch later this year and to land at Mars' frozen north pole in 2009. It will use a robotic arm to dig into the Martian soil and send new scientific discoveries back to Earth.

ULTIMATE BIONICLE® TRIVIA QUIZ!

How much do you know about the 2007 BIONICLE story? Take this quiz and find out! You'll find the answers at the bottom of this page!
